MISS HONG VYADA

When the refugees were sent back, one woman, Mrs Hong Var was in hospital in the Camp at Aranya Prathet recovering from anthrax. Her two children and her young sister were staying with her cousin Peng Sy, who runs our Training Centre in the camp. She had gone down to see her children, and while she was away the soldiers came and took all the new refugees out of the hospital. In this way Hong Var was missed.

The British Home Office has granted her and her little family Entry Visas on compassionate grounds.
